DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter, which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

There is insufficient information in the instant specification about the method of distinguishing between the titanium dioxide coated mica of claim 4 and the titanium dioxide coated mica of claim 6. The instruction "the mature and thickness of the coatings being such that no pearlescent effect occurs" is not explicit enough to enable one of ordinary skill in the art to decide which pigments are pearlescent and which pigments are laser-markable without undue experimentation.

Double Patenting

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

4. Claims 1-10 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-17 of U.S. Patent No. 6,545,065. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the pigment combination and the polymers are identical.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

6. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kniess et al. 6,291,551 or Solms et al. 6,545,065.

7. Kniess et al. disclose anthracene or pentaerythritol with pearl luster pigments in claims 1-4, concentrations in claim 5, polymers in claim 7 and color pigments in claim 8. Solms et al teach applicant's pigment blend in claims 1, 11 and 12 pigment ratios in claim 2, coated mica in claims 3-4, pigment concentrations in claims 5 and 7, polymers in claim 6 and method of laser marking in claims 13-17. See also Examples 1-8. Applicant's claims are not novel.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

8. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

9. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Babler et al. 5,075,195, in view of Koops et al. 6,444,068.

10. Babler et al. recite a method of laser marking using molybdenum disulfide as the laser sensitive pigment in claim 1, polyolefins and PVC in claim 7, other pigments in claim 8, doped iron oxide in platelet form and pearlescent pigments in column 3, lines 35-68. Uncoated mica is shown in column 4, line 46. Koops et al. display a laser markable composition containing a base polymer and Iriodin pearl lustre pigment in claim 8. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to use the mica filled, pearlescent pigment colored polymeric composition of Babler et al., since Koops et al. proves that pearlescent pigments are eminently suitable for laser markable compositions.
